Take what you need to be engaged or not engaged

Who is the SARA Office?

Vision: We believe in communities where everyone is empowered to express themselves and have caring relationships

Mission: Empowering the Stanford community to end sexual and relationship violence, stalking, and sexual harassment through collaborative education, advocacy, and response.

SARA staff are professionally trained and experienced in all matters related to:
- sexual violence
- relationship violence
- stalking
- sexual harassment
- sexuality education

We honor diversity, inclusion, and intersectionality in all aspects of our programming and services.

SARA Offerings

Education
- Workshops/trainings
- Classes
- Programs

Advocacy
- Community/campus processes
- Consultations about options
- Accommodations coordination

Response
- Coordination with key partners/support persons
- Partner in policy implementation
- Institutional & cultural change

Let's Chat More!
- saraoffice@stanford.edu
- sara.stanford.edu
- (650) 725-1056
- Visit us at: Kingscote Gardens at 419 Lagunita Drive (Suite 220)

How do you engage with SARA?
- Request a training
- Seek a consultation for: upcoming programs, community change and/or response, and policy implementation
- Schedule a chat with us to learn more about our office and campus/community resources
- Partner with us to do outreach in your communities
- Become a Peer Educator
- Share your story in “StoryCraft: On Sexuality/Relationships”
- Participate in Holistic Healing Workshops

Training topics include:
- Building Consent Culture
- Upstander Intervention
- Relationship Violence
- Sexual Assault
- Stalking
- Sexual Harassment
- Intersectionality, Systems of Oppression, and Sexual Violence
- Healthy Masculinities
- Creating Sex-Positive Culture
- Facilitating Conversations about Sexuality
- Supporting Survivors
- Trauma Stewardship & Vicarious Trauma